

DATE: 2 April 2026

Iduapriem Mine Supports Cultural Unity at Tarkwa-Nsuaem Expo 2026

Key dignitaries in a group photo after the grand durbar of chiefs

AngloGold Ashanti Iduapriem Mine participated in the grand durbar of chiefs at the maiden edition of the Tarkwa-Nsuaem Expo 2026, held under the theme “Uniting the People Through Culture and Creativity for Development.” The durbar, held on 28 March 2026, brought together traditional authorities, government officials, corporate institutions, and community members in a vibrant celebration of culture, heritage, and shared identity.

The durbar featured lively cultural displays, traditional performances, and remarks from key stakeholders, all highlighting the importance of preserving cultural heritage while fostering development. The Expo provided a unique platform to strengthen community bonds and promote collaboration across sectors within the Tarkwa-Nsuaem Municipality.

As a key sponsor of the Expo, Iduapriem Mine reaffirmed its commitment to community development and cultural promotion. Managing Director, Daniel Boadi delivered remarks at the durbar, emphasizing the role of unity, culture, and creativity as drivers of sustainable development. He noted that development extends beyond economic indicators to include the strength of cultural identity and community cohesion.

He highlighted the Mine’s recent initiatives, including a free medical screening exercise for Tarkwa residents and the ongoing construction of an ultra-modern community centre designed as a hub for learning, innovation, and social engagement.

Managing Director, Daniel Boadi delivering a speech at the durbar

Western Regional Minister, Hon Joseph Nelson delivering a keynote address

Daniel Boadi also highlighted the Mine’s recognition as the 2025 Mining Company of the Year at the Ghana Mining Industry Awards, attributing the achievement to strong stakeholder collaboration and continued investment in socio-economic development. He further called for strengthened partnerships among traditional leaders, government, the private sector, and communities, encouraging all stakeholders to leverage culture and creativity as tools for transformation and progress.

The Managing Director was supported at the event by Naa Boinye Sowah, Supt. HRIS Support, Human Resources, Senyo Mensah Buake, Supt Community Relations & ASM and Richard Amoako Ansong, Supt Communications and External Relations, demonstrating the Mine’s collective commitment to stakeholder engagement and community relations. The durbar was moderated by the Officer, Communications and External Relations, Josephine Appiawah Turkson.

Iduapriem Mine’s participation in the Expo underscores its ongoing dedication to empowering people and advancing societies, while celebrating the rich cultural heritage of its host communities.

MCE for Tarkwa Nsuaem, Hon. Ebenezer Cobbinah giving a remark

Paramount Queen Mother of Wassa Fiase, Nana Abena Kunadjoa II giving a remark

Tarkwa-Nsuaem Expo 2026 committee chair, Nana Kwabena Gyan II giving a remark

Some beautiful displays of culture at the durbar

Nananom seated at the grand durbar of chiefs

Officer, Communications and External Relations, Josephine Appiah Turkson moderating the grand durbar of chiefs

Team Iduapriem at the durbar